Abraham Lincoln High School

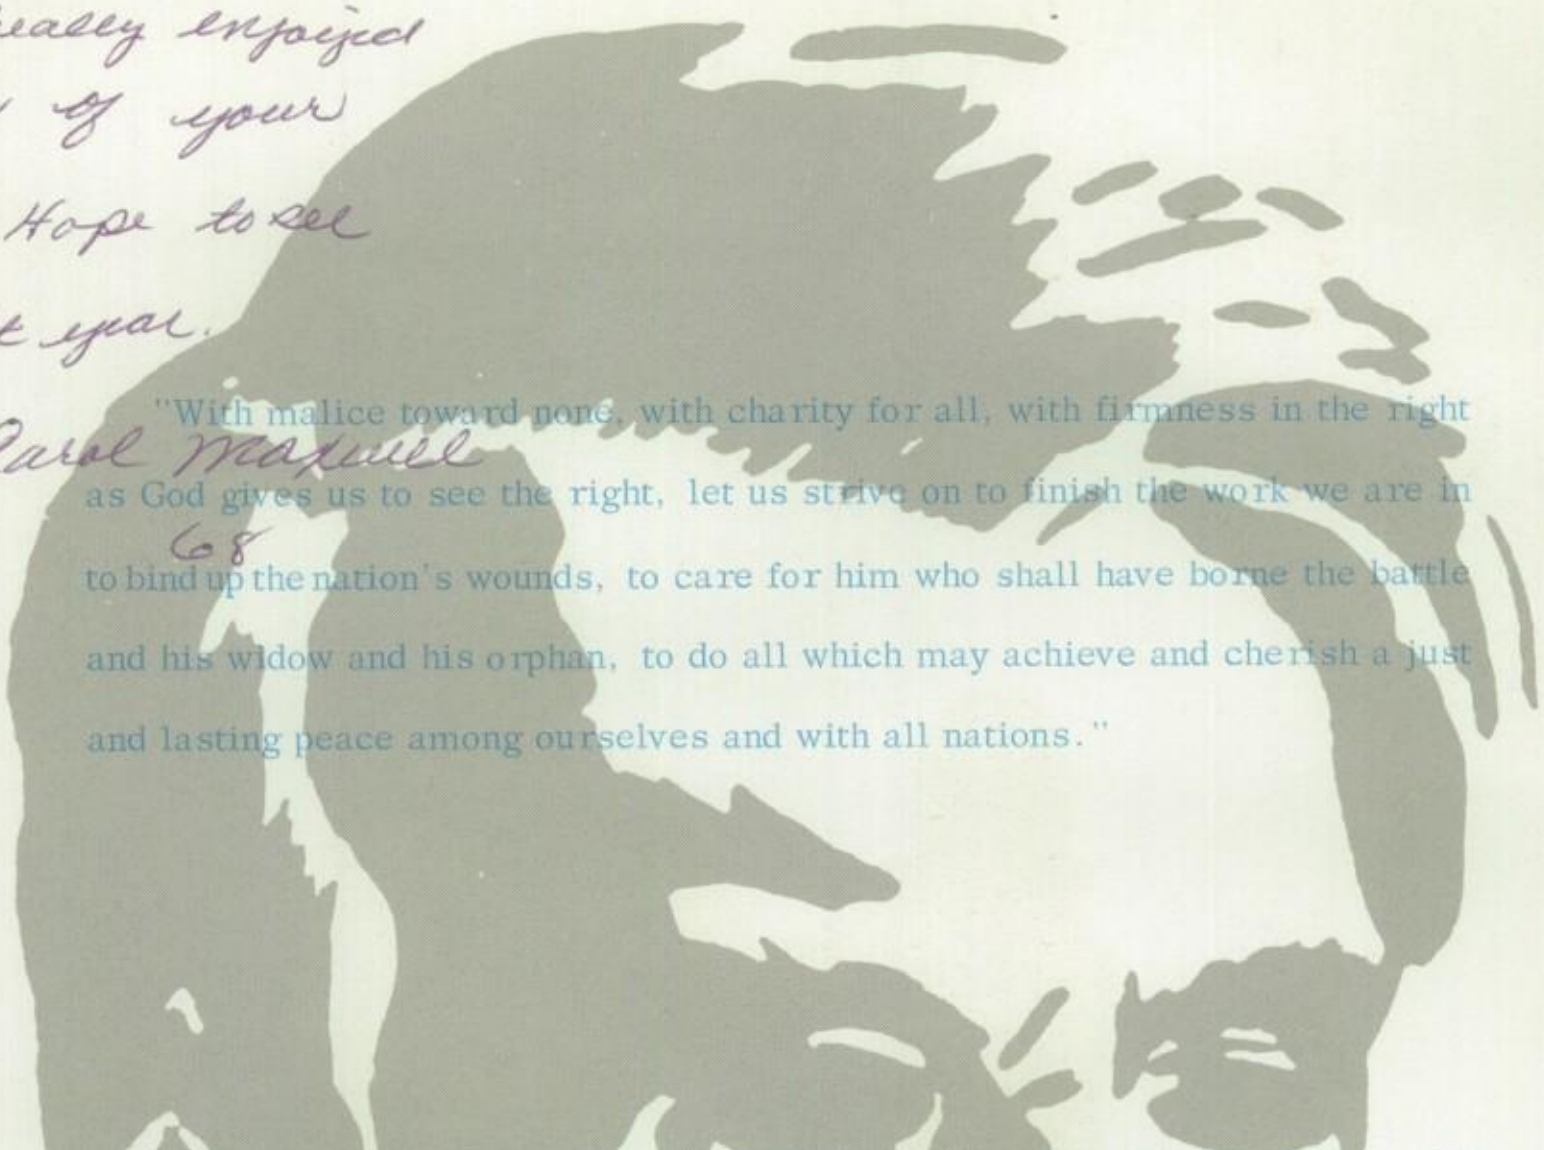
Denver, Colorado - Volume VI

Miss Schock,

I've really enjoyed being one of your students. Hope to see you next year.

Carol Maxwell

68



"With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are in to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle and his widow and his orphan, to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."

March 4, 1865, during the Second Inaugural Address, Abraham Lincoln delivered his speech to the many people who had re-elected him to the office of President of the United States.

So great a man spoke such meaningful words as the end of the Civil War was nearing; words which gave the people the needed strength to strive onward, to complete their tasks and to reach their goal of re-uniting the North and the South. Let us continually recall and ponder the spirit which this one man contained within himself. By believing in mankind, Lincoln had the power to raise the hopes of the war-layden people and to re-establish the oneness of America.

So, in turn, Abraham Lincoln's unforgettable words should be re-echoed to all of us, the students of Abraham Lincoln High School.

As Students of Abraham Lincoln High School, then, can it be so difficult to eliminate the feeling of apathy which is so very present, and replace it with the true Lincoln spirit: that Lincoln spirit consisting of sincerity, willingness to help, and devotion to our school - Abraham Lincoln.

Lynda Duke - '66

Miss Schock

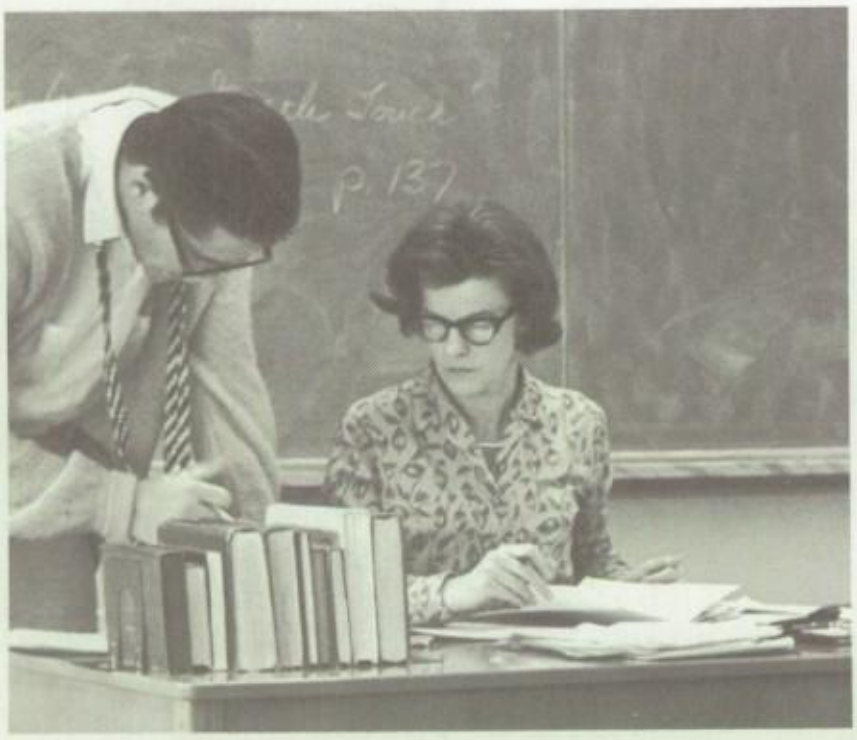
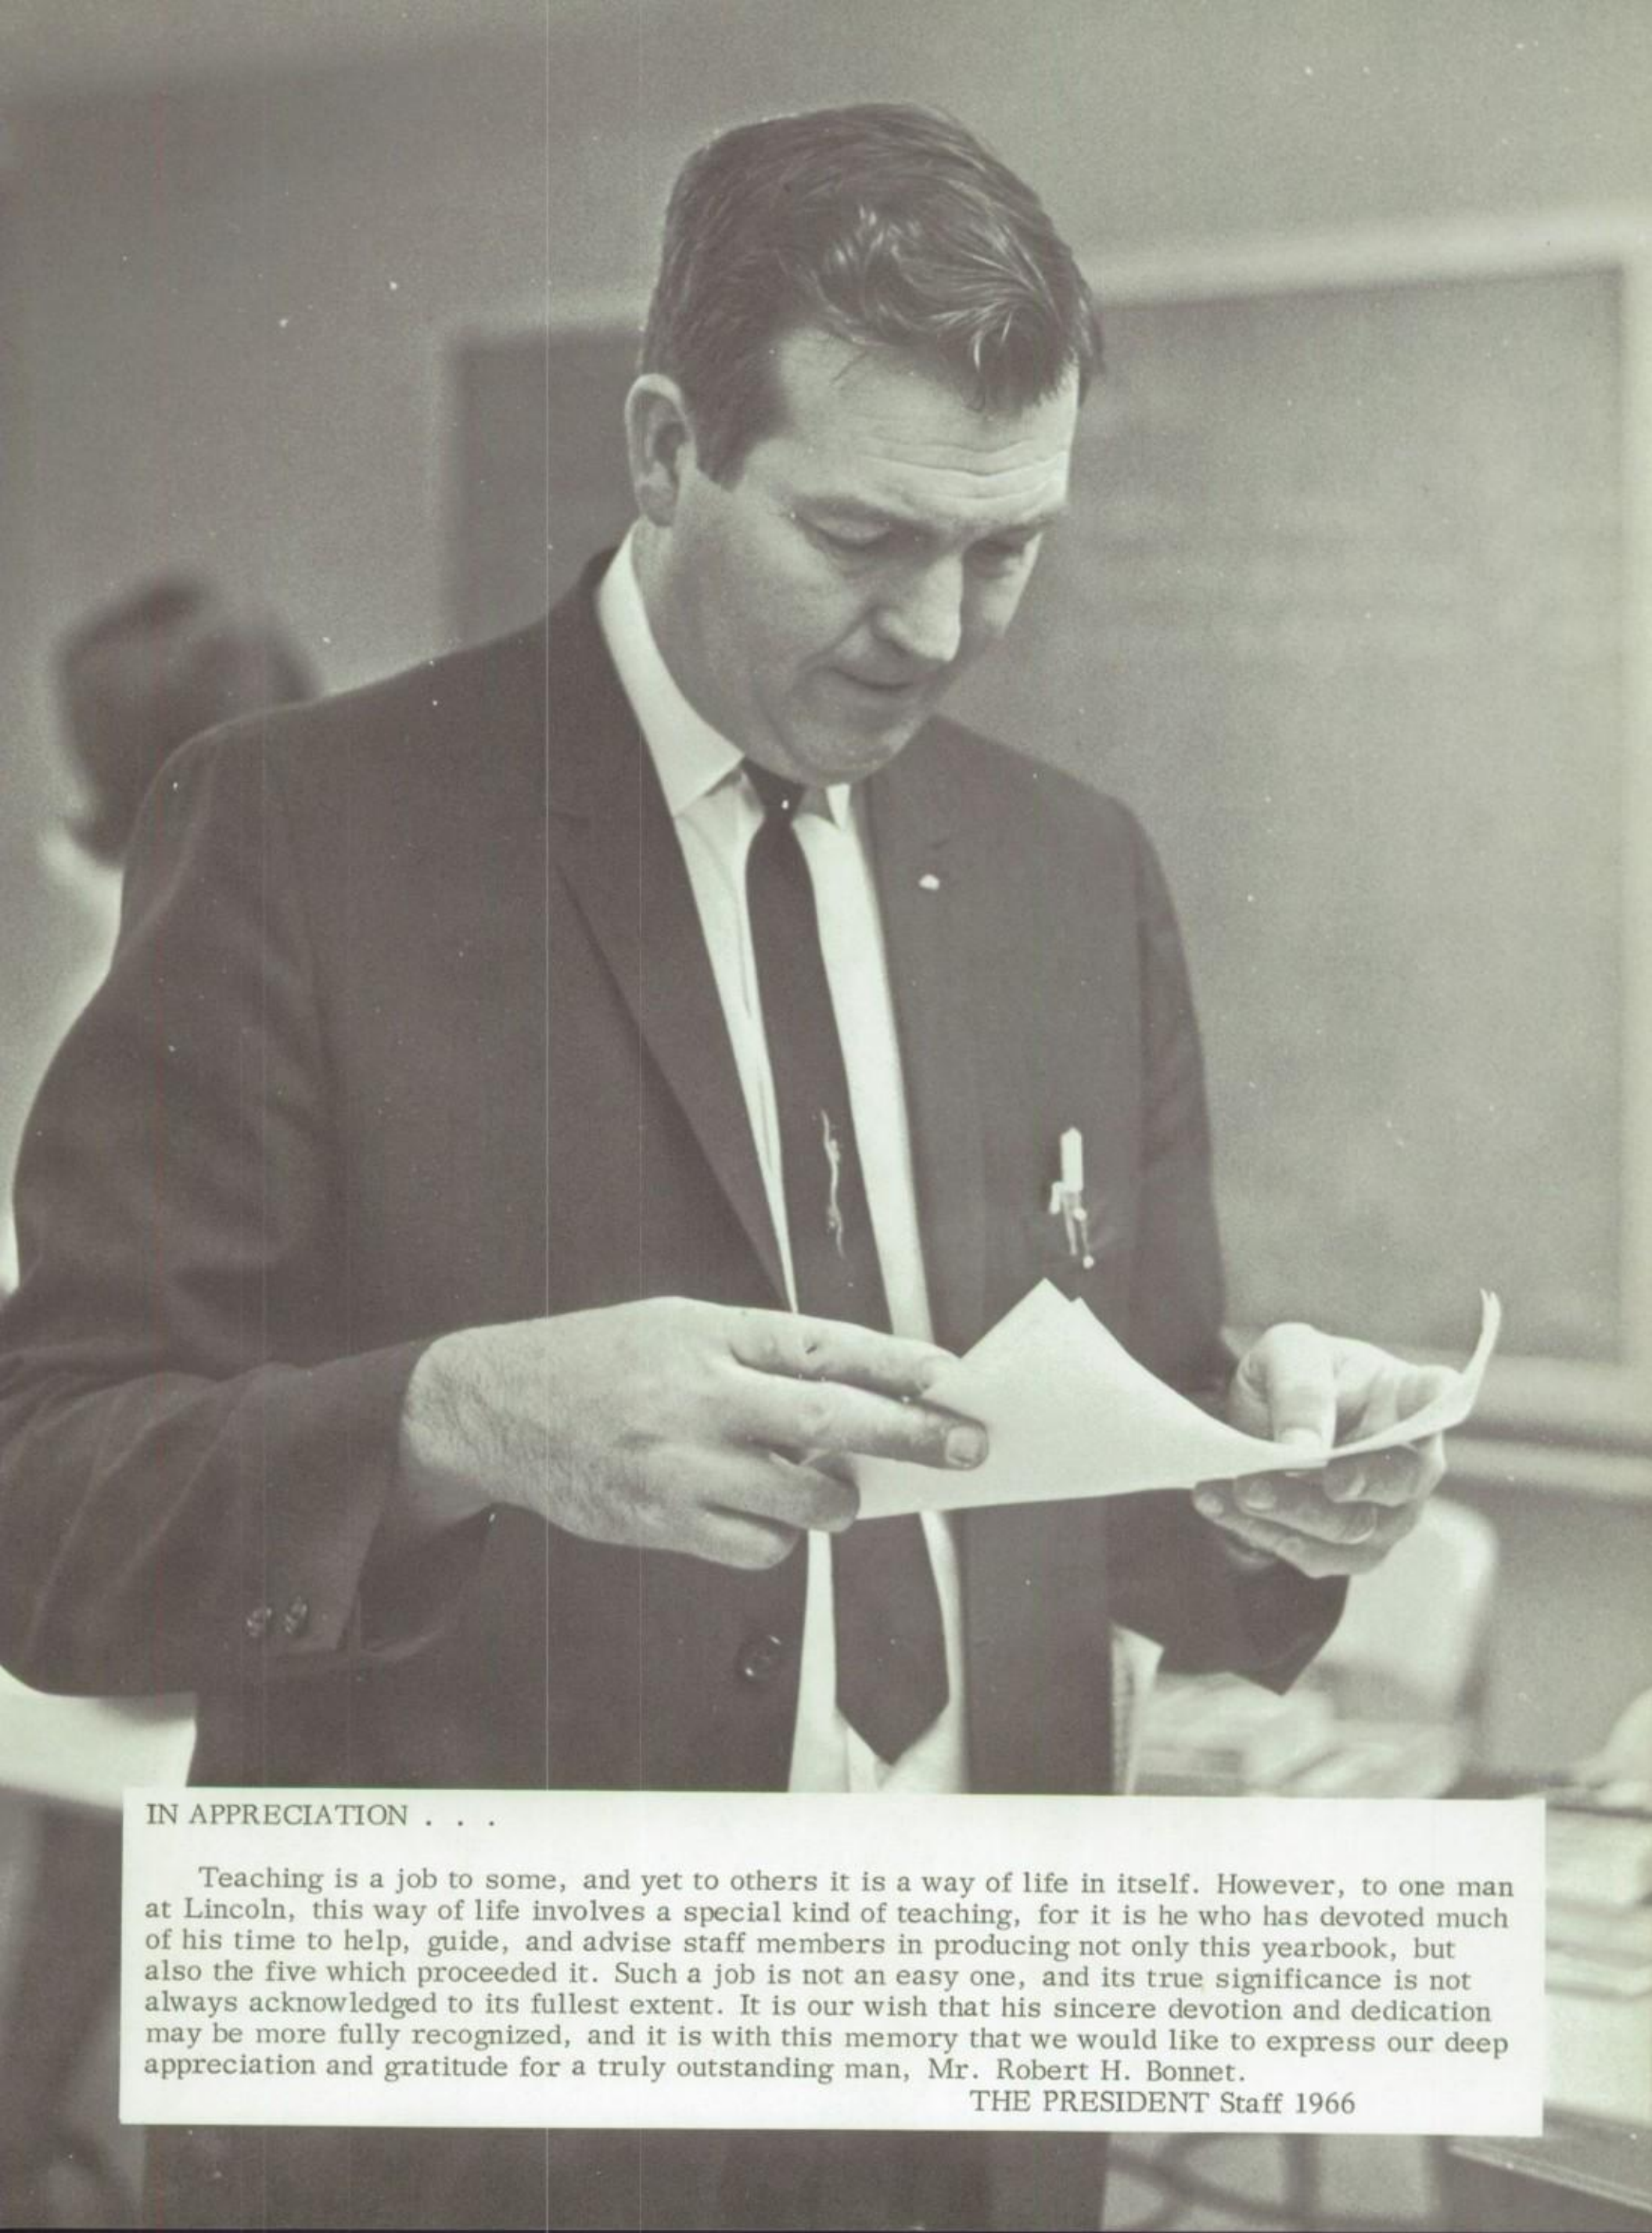
"I hate to tell you, but. . ."



LITTLE JACK HORNER . . .



IN APPRECIATION . . .

Teaching is a job to some, and yet to others it is a way of life in itself. However, to one man at Lincoln, this way of life involves a special kind of teaching, for it is he who has devoted much of his time to help, guide, and advise staff members in producing not only this yearbook, but also the five which proceeded it. Such a job is not an easy one, and its true significance is not always acknowledged to its fullest extent. It is our wish that his sincere devotion and dedication may be more fully recognized, and it is with this memory that we would like to express our deep appreciation and gratitude for a truly outstanding man, Mr. Robert H. Bonnet.

How intriguing?

We must be losing, the flag's at half mast.

THE PRESIDENT'S HALL OF FAME

Bright sparks in our past.....the president.....the basketball player ....the cheerleader....the poet....the honorary cadet....the wrestler. ...the dramatist....the scholar.....the leaders of yesterday, the hopes of tomorrow. We have seen their faces smiling, questioning, cheering, frowning. They were part of us but yet they stood alone, striving for excellence in their own personal goals. It is to these students that we show our appreciation by giving them the recognition they deserve in the President's Hall of Fame.

Suddenly, halfway through the last dance, Henry Hatcheck timidly approaches Sally Slouch and asks her if she would care to join him on the dance floor, in Indian sign language that is. She accepts. They move toward the middle of the floor and as luck would have it, the prom ends.

"What a delightful evening," Sally exclaims.
